FOREWORD.

THIS supplement is sent out to each subscriber to the Cady Genealogy, to be used in connection with said volume for the correction of errors found therein and for the benefit of valuable new records.

After the printing of the Cady Genealogy some errors were discovered which had crept into the text in various ways. Some were typographical, some were due to lapse of memory on the part of those who kindly furnished the records of other families which could not be obtained otherwise, or to oversight in copying or proof reading, or the difficulty in deciphering the chirography of some correspondents. As these corrections and additions have largely been furnished by members of the families directly concerned they may be deemed reliable. Much interesting material has been added, notably the completion of the records of the Jordan family, of Oliver Cady, Isaac Cady and others which the compiler trusts will be duly appreciated.

As this supplement has been produced at considerable expense, extra copies will be supplied at 50 cents each.

ORRIN PEER ALLEN.

ADDITIONAL RECORDS

To the Nicholas Cady Genealogy.

THE following family records were received since the publication of the Cady Genealogy, and well deserve a supplement for their preservation, because of their value and interest. The figures at the left refer to the page and number of the Cady Genealogy where these new records connect.

It is stated that he presumably married Judith Knapp about 1648, but recent information received from Rev. Isaac Goodell renders it nearly certain that the marriage occurred in the early part of 1650.

Amy Tyler, dau. of Daniel and Jane (Cady) Tyler, b. Brooklyn, Conn., Dec. 10, 1733; m. Nov. 27, 1760, Aaron Goodell, b. Mansfield, Conn., July 26, 1733. She d. Hampton, Conn., Sept. 13, 1811; he d. Chaplin, Conn., Mar. 27, 1823.

Daniel Tyler, father of Amy, was a well-to-do farmer in Canterbury and owned a slave. He married three times and had 21 children. At the time of his death, Feb. 20, 1802, he had six children, 50 g. children, and 120 g. g. children, all living. His second wife was Mehitabel Shurtleff. Their son, Daniel, b. 1750, m. (2) Mrs. Sarah (Edwards) Chaplin, g. dau. of Rev. Jonathan Edwards. Their son, Daniel, b. 1799, m. Emily Lee. Their dau., Gertrude Tyler, m. Charles Caraw, whose dau., Edith Kermit Caraw, m. ex-President Theodore Roosevelt.

Aaron and Amy (Tyler) Goodell had a son Isaac, b. Mansfield, Conn., April 10, 1770; m. Nov. 27, 1804, Chloe Hammond. He d. May 1, 1856; she d. Jan. 27, 1870. Their son, Walter Goodell,

b. Hampton, Conn., July 6, 1806 ; m. Dec. 9, 1827, Sally Washburn. He d. Haverhill, Mass., July 7, 1872 ; she d. Nov. 24, 1886. Their son, Rev. Isaac Goodell, b. Chaplin, Conn., Nov. 21, 1846 ; unm. After receiving a good common school education, he studied music in Boston, and has composed many pieces. He was for a time at Andover Theological Seminary. Thence in 1876 he went to Nebraska as a missionary, also laboring in Illinois and Michigan. Was ordained a Congregational minister Oct. 31, 1877, at Hillsboro, Ill. Labored in California for some years and then went to the Harrison Islands in 1884, as missionary and teacher for some five years, then returned to California, Texas and Missouri ; then to Haverhill, Mass., in 1902, on account of failing health. Has retired from the ministry. Is now engaged in literature and music.

The following extract, copied by Miss Tracy, who was employed for the purpose by Mr. C. C. C. Bradley of Manchester, Iowa, is given a place here because of the light it throws upon the record of Jeremiah Cady's family. Dated from Saratoga, Surrogate's office :

"To the people of the state of New York, free and independent, to all persons literate, and more especially to John Cady of Saratoga, farmer.

Whereas, it is represented to us that Jeremiah Cady of Saratoga, farmer, lately died intestate, leaving goods and chattels within this state by means whereof the granting of administration of said estate does appertain unto us, and we, being desirous that the same may be administered according to law, you are therefore required to cite Letitia Cady, widow of the deceased Jeremiah, Warren Cady, William Cady, Phineas Cady, Lydia,—Lucy Baker, and Abigail Bacon, the next of kin to the said deceased, to appear at the Surrogate's office of the said county at Wellstown, on the 5th day of Nov. next.

* * * * Dated this 6th day of Oct., 1798. Signed Henry Walton. Saratoga County, ss. : John Cady of the town of Saratoga, farmer, being duly sworn, on his oath declares that he has served the within citations on Letitia Cady, Jeremiah Cady, Warren Cady and Abigail Bacon, by reading the same to them, and further, that a copy of the written citation was affixed in a public place near the dwelling-house of the said Jeremiah Cady, deceased, since the 6th day of Oct., last, until this day, and further said deponent saith not. Given before me this 5th day of Nov., 1798, Henry Walton, Surrogate of the County of Saratoga."

The above extract shows that all of Jeremiah's children, who were born in Connecticut, were alive at the time of his death, about Oct. 1, 1798, and accounts for two more, Lucy and Abigail, who must have been born after he moved to Windsor, Mass. Also that John, Warren, Jeremiah and Abigail were living so near to Saratoga that John could read the citations to them. The others perhaps married and settled in Mass.

David Cady remained in Florida, N. Y., with most of his children until about 1830, when several of his sons removed to Fairport, N. Y. Later four of the sons removed to Southeastern Michigan, where most of their descendants are now located. David Cady m. (2) Lorina Pratt. He d. April 25, 1845, and is buried in Perrington, N. Y.; his wife d. 1846 and is buried by his side. Children: (1) Daniel Lovejoy, b. 1787. (2) David, b. 1791. (3) Irene. (4) Samuel Pratt, b. 1800. (5) George Washington. Of the above, Samuel Pratt Cady had James B., who had William B. Cady, now a member of the law firm of Shaw, Warren, Cady & Oakes of Detroit, Mich., who has furnished the foregoing information and who plans to compile the record of his g. grandfather's descendants.

6. COL. CHARLES PHILANDER JORDAN, (Julia Ann and David Jefferson<sup>4</sup> Jordan), b. Piqua, O., May 12, 1851; m. Pine Ridge, S. D., Dec. 11, 1878, Julia Walker, a full-blooded Indian woman, known for her Christian charity and virtues for many years. She belongs to the Ogalalla Red Cloud band of Sioux. All her relatives are of the higher class of the Indians—the men noted as orators or warriors, the women for their virtue and comeliness; all of unusual fair complexion and fine appearance. Col. Jordan was a drummer boy at Piqua, O., in 1860–61. He went early to the western frontier, and served as Qr. Master's clerk, (civilian) U. S. A.; was at Ft. Robinson, Neb., and appointed as Chief Clerk, and afterwards Acting Agent at the Red Cloud, Pine Ridge and Rosebud Sioux Agencies, and during the critical periods on the frontier served under many military officers and civilians. When only twenty-five years of age he had temporary charge of 10,000 semi hostile Sioux, Cheyennes and Arapahoes, 119 miles from the nearest town (Sidney, Neb.), and when only a few soldiers were in the country. From the first, Col. Jordan had the wonderful tact and good fortune to gain the full confidence and great influence over the Indians with whom he came in contact, which he still maintains after thirty-five years, proving that fair and honest dealing with these tribes will be reciprocated in kind by them. For many years the Colonel has co-operated with government officials in negotiating with Indians with whom he has associated, with peaceful results. During the Atlanta Exposition in 1895, Col. Jordan was probably the only man in the country to whom the government would have granted a concession to select from the Sioux Nation the Indians he desired to accompany him to exhibit there an American Indian village, which trust he fulfilled with honor to himself and acceptably to all concerned. Because of his services to the U. S. government and the state of South Dakota, in behalf of peace and harmony on the frontier and his assistance in making treaties, a new town in Tripp county, South Dakota, bears his name on the recommendation of the South Dakota delegation in Congress.

The foregoing gives but a faint idea of the varied activities of Col. Jordan, which, if fully written, would fill a large volume. He is a member of the societies of Mayflower Descendants, Colonial Wars, Sons of the American Revolution, War of 1812, and is a 32d degree Mason of Yankton Consistory. He is president of the Jordan Mercantile Co. Trades at Rosebud Agency. At present he resides at his country home, the Orchard Ranch in the Sioux reservation.

ORIGIN OF THE JORDAN FAMILY.

De Courcy pedigree, showing the ancestry of Jordan DeCourcy, founder of the De Exeter Jordan family in Ireland. Arms:

Argt, three eagles displ. gu. ducally crowned, or. crest; on a ducal coronet, or, an eagle disp. argt. Motto: Vincet omnia veritas.

This family name has been variously rendered, Courcy, Courcie, Curcy, Cursie and Curcie, and according to Lodge is allied to most of the princes of Europe. It derives its descent in the male line from the House of Lorraine, of the race of the Emperor Charlemange, who d. died A. D., 814; and in the female line from the first three Dukes of Normandy. Tracing the descent from Charles Martel to Jordan de Courcy, founder of the Jordan (De Exter) family of County Mayo, Ireland, the following is the pedigree:

1. Charles Martel, had
2. Pepin, King of France, who had
3. Charlemange (or Charles the Great), king of France (d. 814), who had
4. Louis (the third son), who had
5. Charles (b. 823), who had
6. Louis II (b. 844, Emperor 878), who had
7. Charles III, who had
8. Charles, Duke of Lorraine, who had
9. Charles, who had
10. Wigelius DeCourcy, who had
11. Balderic Teutonicus, who m. the niece of Gilbert Earl of Brion, in Normandy (and dau. of the Earl of Clare), and had six sons and seven daughters. The third son was
12. Robert DeCourcy, Lord of Courcy in Normandy, who m. and had
13. Richard DeCourcy (d. 1098), who accompanied William, Duke of Normandy, afterwards known as William the Conqueror, in his expedition to England, and was present at the decisive battle of Hastings, fought Oct. 14, 1066, after which the said Richard was granted several lordships in England, one of which was that of Stoke, in the County of Somerset. This Richard m. and had

14. Robert, Lord of Courcy in Normandy, and Baron of Stoke-Courcy, who was "Sewer" or Steward of the Household to King Henry I and to the Empress Maud. In 1133 he was made one of the greater barons at Westminster. He had

15. Robert DeCourcy, Baron of Stoke, who was the principal Commander of the English forces against the Scots at the battle of Northampton. He m. and had

16. William, Lord of Islip (d. 1171); m. Juliana, dau. of Risherim DeAquila, and had two sons and one daughter. The sons: (1) Sir John DeCourcy, first Earl of Ulster, Ireland; (2) Jordan DeCourcy, or as he was also called, Jordan Teutonicus, who was the ancestor of the DeExeter Jordan family, and who in 1197 was killed in Ulster by an Irish retainer.

JORDAN (DE EXETER) FAMILY.

Lords of Athleathan, in the Barony of Gallen and County of Mayo, Ireland. Arms: gu., a lion rampant, three crosses crosslet, or.

Crest; a lion rampant holding in the paws a cross crosslet fitchee, or. Motto: Percussus resurgo.

This Mayo family is descended from Jordan DeCourcy (as above), was a younger brother of Sir John DeCourcy, the first Earl of Ulster; from him they derive the surname MacJordan, now Jordan. When the first of the family came to Ireland with the English invader, 1168 or 1169, they were known by the name De Exeter, because they came from Exeter in England; but in time "the descendants of the Anglo-Norman invaders of Ireland began to assume Irish patronymics, the De Exeters, called themselves "Mac Jordan," after their ancestor, Jordan DeCourcy, who was killed in 1197, leaving many sons."

The Jordan portion of the family name originated in the fact that Jordan DeCourcy went as standard bearer with the English Crusaders to the Holy Land, and in a great battle with the Saracens on the banks of the Jordan, DeCourcy performed such deeds of valor that he was accorded the name Jordan DeCourcy. Hence the adoption by his descendants, the DeExeters, of the name Jordan in memory of their ancestor's notable prowess.

The MacJordans held high and distinguished positions among the invaders, and intermarried with some of the noblest families of Ruins of Wright Castle.

Connaugh. DeExeter MacJordan married Penelope O'Connor, dau. of the King of Ireland. The principal residence of the MacJordan family was at Athleathan, where in 1169 or 1170 they built their most important castle in Ireland; it was called Athleathan Castle, which is now in a state of ruin, but which must have been a stately building. But few families still hold, as do the MacJordans, large tracts of the same lands which they possessed more than 700 years ago, and are able to trace, as they, a direct and unbroken descent from the founder of their family in Ireland. The Jordans built eleven castles, mostly during the 13th and 14th centuries, around their extensive estates for their better defense. These are now mostly in ruins. A view of the ruins of Wraight Castle is shown in the accompanying illustration, one corner of which only is standing. It is seven or eight miles from Ballyhaunis, County Mayo, Ireland, built before 1350 by the DeExeter Jordans.

AMERICAN BRANCH OF MAYO CO. JORDANS.

Robert<sup>1</sup> Jordan came from Ireland before 1736 and settled in Rathmullen, now Franklin Co., Pa.; m. Agnes Black; had seven ch., of whom David Jordan, b. about 1739, was 2d Lieut. in Revolutionary war. His son, John<sup>3</sup> Jordan, b. 1780, m. Alletta Ward. He had service in the War of 1812. Had five ch., of whom his eldest son, David Jefferson<sup>4</sup> Jordan's, record is given in foregoing sketch. The second son, Rev. William Ward<sup>4</sup> Jordan, b. 1806; m. Mary Kelsey and had David Blin<sup>5</sup> Jordan. (See No. 582, p. 412, Cady Gen.)

The foregoing sketch of the Jordans in Ireland and this country has been condensed from information furnished by Mr. Scott Jordan of Chicago, who has made a careful study of the subject and visited Ireland in the course of his research.
